Message from our Woman's Club President

FROM OUR PRESIDENT- Lisa Sharp- February 2026

Fellow Club Members,

February is a busy month for us starting with our Leadership meeting on the 10th. We had a good turn out and I think it went well. I hope that we get future leaders for our club by demystifying the leadership roles our club has.

The Children's Art Show is this weekend and I want to thank Gloria Rinehart and Wilma Ward for all they did along with the committee who picked up the art, put on the ribbons, sorted and delivered the art and helped pin the art. There is a lot that goes into the art show and it takes members to step up and help so thank you to all that helped.

This year the Southern District Festival of the Arts will be on the 25th the day before our February meeting on the 26th. Our theme is France and we have purchased table cloths that have the Eiffel Tower on them. We are asking everyone attending to wear a white shirt and black pants. We have purchased black berets and red scarves for everyone to wear. We will have a lot of fun and we will look very French!

Next month will be our annual Quilt Show on March 20-21. The Quilt Show funds our operating expenses for the year and we will need volunteers with set up and take down, husbands are always helpful.

Please remember to wear our red shirts for the Art Show and the Quilt Show!

Sincerely,

Lisa Sharp

Sandie's Inspirations

February 2026

Some friendships don't need loud words to prove they're real 🤍🫂

They grow quietly.

In shared silences.

In inside jokes that no one else understands.

In moments where laughter feels lighter just because they're there. 🌿

A good friend isn't the one who shows up only when life is easy.

It's the one who sits beside you when the fire burns low,

when the night feels long,

when you don't know what to say — and neither do they. 🔥

Friendship is built on kindness.

On laughing at silly things that heal tired hearts.

On listening without fixing.

On staying when leaving would be easier. 🤍

It's in the way they check on you without a reason.

The way they remember small details you thought no one noticed.

The way their presence makes heavy days feel a little less heavy. 🌱

You don't measure real friendship by time, or by how often you talk,

but by how safe you feel being exactly who you are. 🫶

Good friends don't compete.

They don't judge.

They don't disappear when you're quiet.

They sit with you, shoulder to shoulder,

watching life unfold — together. 🤝

And if you're lucky enough to have even one soul like that, hold them gently.

Appreciate them deeply.

Because friendships like this don't just make life sweeter…

They make it survivable.

The Nature of a Convention and how it differs from other meetings.

A convention is an assembly of delegates. Delegates are representatives of the constituent units of a larger group. For example, a national organization (GFWC/CFWC) with hundreds of chapters (clubs) might hold an annual convention, composed of delegates and officers of each chapter for the purpose of electing national officers and setting policies for the organization. The convention serves as a single deliberative body acting in the name of the entire organization. (RONR 12 ed. 58:1)

Although there are many similarities in the way business is conducted at a convention and the way it is conducted at other meetings, there are a few significant differences. Because each convention is normally composed of a new set of delegates, it must begin with a series of steps by which it "organizes" itself before it can go on to consider substantive business.

The steps in beginning a convention:

1. Send out the "call" or notice of convention by specified time in advance.
2. Establish its membership by adopting the Credentials Committee report – The voting membership must be officially established.
3. Decide upon its rules (to some extent these will differ from those in the parliamentary authority) by adopting the report of the Committee on Standing Rules—agree to the provisional convention rules.
4. Approve the order in which it will consider its business by adopting the Program Committee Report – Adhere to the proposed program business agenda and special events. (RONR 12th ed. 59:10-13).
5. Consideration of the Resolutions Committee—discuss, amend, adopt policies that express the group's views.
6. Conduct elections—according to the organization's bylaws.

The procedures for determining the number and qualifications of delegates and how they are selected are spelled out in your club's bylaws. The Delegate representation number is in addition to your Club President—eligible by virtue of office. Your club must send in "credentials" forms designating the number of delegates attending before a date specified in the "call", in advance of the convention.

As a delegate you are privileged to take your place in the hall. You are free to vote as you see fit on matters that come before the convention, except that you must vote in accordance with any instructions your club may have chosen to give you. After returning, it is your duty to be prepared to present to the club an informative report on what happened. (RONR 12 ed. 58:6-9, 59:14(5),58:18)

Woman's Club members enjoy events and the many opportunities to support the community. Big thanks to our photographers, Mikki B. and Donna O.
